COMPOSING INSIDE THE PANEL

1. One focal point per panel. Decide what the reader must notice, and make everything else quieter than it.
2. Leave the top third for lettering. Speech bubbles hang from the top edge. Art drawn up there gets covered.
3. Vary the camera. Three identical medium shots read as flat. Push in on the punchline panel.
4. Keep characters on the same side. If A is left of B in panel one, keep them there — swapping reads as a new scene.
