THREE RULES THIS LAYOUT ASSUMES

- Right to left, top to bottom. Within a tier the rightmost panel is first. Lettering has to follow the same order or the page becomes unreadable.
- Gutters carry meaning. A thin gutter reads as a moment later; a thick one, or a black gutter, reads as a scene or time break.
- Panels may leave the page. Bleeding a panel off the trim edge removes its frame and reads as opened-out space — used for establishing shots and emotional peaks.

Dashed outline = trim edge for bleed panels.
